

Mission

To equip disadvantaged post high school Kenyan youth with photography skills and an online business setup that will enable them to raise their own university school fees by posting photos to sell on the web. To market and sell “letter photographs” internationally so that customers can receive unique products while also assisting someone from Kenya in their education.

Vision

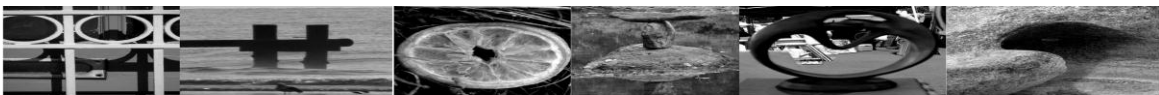

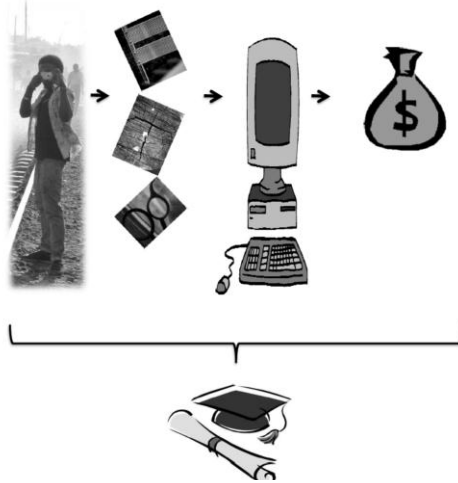

Uwazi connects Kenyan students with an online international audience in order to raise school fees for university through creative photography methods.

Raising School Fees

When a customer buys photos from one or more students, the money will go directly to those student’s support-raising accounts. Customers will be able to track how the students are doing, regarding how much support has been raised, and once the amount has been raised, the money will be sent to the school.
